ENDEAVORING TO ROUND UP GANG

Rochester Detective On Way
Here to Consult With Trooper Lewis.

TWO CROOKS AT LARGE

Leader of Thieves Who Dropped Pal
And Taxi Driver Here Went East.
An Unusual Story.

As the result of a telephone conversation with Private William Lewis, now in charge of the state constabulary station here, a city detective has left Rochester for Gettysburg for a consultation regarding the apprehension of Earl Garrett, believed to be implicated in the Hilton, New York, post office robbery. A telegram received here Friday night stated that Fred Klaus, one of the proprietors of the American Taxi Cab Company, also intended to come to Gettysburg to interview his driver, Robert Coughlin, who disappeared from the city last Monday with a Hudson sedan.

These are the latest developments in the unusual case brought to light on Friday when Robert Coughlin, Rochester taxi driver, told Trooper Lewis and Chief of Police Fugitt that he had been seized by a party of three crooks and forced to drive them from Rochester to Gettysburg.

One of the crooks, Earl Garrett, was captured and placed in the Adams county jail and the other two, Charles Duffy and Peggy Harris, rode away in the stolen machine toward York.

Trooper Lewis has sent telegrams to many sections of Pennsylvania in an effort to apprehend Duffy and the woman, who are believed to be responsible for a series of robberies in Pennsylvania and New York.

Complications arose in the case Friday when Mr. Klaus telegraphed Trooper Lewis to place young Coughlin under arrest for stealing the Hudson sedan. Knowing that the Rochester man was unacquainted with the true facts of the story, Constable Lewis allowed Coughlin his liberty.

Further proof that young Coughlin was telling the truth when he said that the three bandits made a practice of failing to pay for gasoline while on the road is furnished by the following article from the Friday edition of a Hanover daily:

"Last evening about 8:30 o'clock a big sedan automobile bearing Pennsylvania license tag number 425-176 stopped at the City Garage, Jonas Robert, proprietor, on Broadway, where the driver had the tank filled. The driver then asked for a quart of oil and while Mr. Robert went for the oil, the driver started the car and drove quickly away without paying for the gas or waiting for the oil, which was the ruse.

"Mr. Robert at once called the police department, but could get no response. In the meantime the car was out of sight."

Friday afternoon in the Lincoln Way theater box office young Coughlin told Trooper Lewis and Chief of Police Fugitt the details of the nerve racking experience through which he passed.

"I am an employee of the American Taxi Cab Company in Rochester," he began, "and last Monday night was ordered to drive a party of two men and a woman to Geneva, New York, and from there to Penn Yan. Accordingly I went to the designated residence, got the party, and started off. Nothing unusual happened until we were within about a mile of Penn Yan, when one of the men, whom I

Major Todd Describes Vast
Work of Organization Since War.

ANNUAL COUNTY MEETING

Election of Officers And Committee
Members For Coming Year. Officers'
Reports Heard.

Major Henry Stanley Todd, distinguished artist and portrait painter, who only two weeks ago returned from France where he was in charge of Red Cross affairs, delighted the small audience in the Court House Friday night with his vivid account of the work of the Red Cross in France and Belgium since the close of the war. His address was one of the features of the annual meeting of the Adams County Red Cross.

H. T. Weaver, president of the county organization, presided at the session and called for reports from Miss Margaret McMillan, home service secretary; Mrs. Wm. Arch McClean, chairman of the canteen committee and Professor W. Raymond Shank, who is in charge of the Junior Red Cross. Miss McMillan read the report for the year ending November 1, showing the many interests of the Red Cross since the war and the great amount of assistance rendered, especially to ex-service men and their families.

Mr. Shank explained briefly the aim of the Junior Red Cross for the coming year and described what had been done. He said there was more than $600 in the treasury and that a large part of this sum would be spent in providing first aid kits and measuring scales for the schools. "Forty five teachers of the county came to the office of the superintendent of schools Friday and joined the Junior Red Cross and pledged they would aid in the work of the junior organization," said Mr. Shank in prophesying a new interest in the work for the coming year. He mentioned the fact that a child may become a member of the Junior Red Cross by paying any sum, no matter how small.

Treasurer Charles Stock reported a balance of $2188.08 in the main treasury of the Red Cross and $590 in the home service treasury. Officers and executive committee members were elected for the ensuing year by acclamation as follows:

President, H. T. Weaver; vice president, Mrs. Donald P. McPherson; secretary, Miss Margaret McMillan; treasurer, Charles Stock; executive committee members, Mrs. William Arch McClean, Mrs. C. B. Stover, Dr. J. McCrea Dickson, Miss Annie Horner, Miss Anna Reck, Mrs. E. S. Lewars, Mrs. William Hersh.

TENEMENT FIRE KILLS 9

Two Families Perish in Early Morning
Blaze.

By Associated Press
New York, Nov. 20.—Nine persons constituting every member but one of two tenement families lost their lives early today in a fire which destroyed the five-story apartment house at 307 West 146th street. Fourteen other families escaped or were rescued by firemen.

Originating, fire authorities say, in a baby carriage on the first floor of the building open doors cutting off escape through the halls. Nearly one hundred men, women and children clad in night clothes swarmed the fire escapes, some making their way to the ground, while others huddled terror-stricken on the platforms in midair until carried to safety by firemen.

FILM SCENES ON THE BATTLEFIELD

Style of Travel
Picture.

The historic scenes of the battlefield of Gettysburg will form a portion of a motion picture production being taken by an independent organization which spent part of Friday and all of today here.

N. H. Friend, former director for the Famous Players Corporation, is directing the new picture and Miss Virginia Starr, well known screen and legitimate stage actress, plays the leading role.

The object of the independent company is to weave a thread of a story into a picture that will be featured by the most beautiful scenes in the United States from New York to Oregon. To procure the desired views of the country Mr. Friend, Miss Starr, and Earl Roseman, the camera man, who recently returned from a six months' expedition to Central Africa, will go southward from Gettysburg to Florida and from there to Oregon via Louisiana and California. At the completion of their work in Oregon they contemplate taking scenes in Yellowstone National Park and then returning to the east.

"Knowing that Burton Holmes and other men in the motion picture game have specialized in plain scenic pictures," said Mr. Friend, "we are endeavoring to weave into our picture the thread of a plot. A New York shop girl with a great desire to travel inherits a sum of money and starts on a journey through the country, writing her impressions of the country through which she travels."

Mr. Friend stated furthermore that he had secured Ring Lardner, of "You Know Me Al" fame to do the writing for his production. He expects the first of his pictures to be produced on the screen during next April.

The three motion picture people stayed at the Hoffman Hotel while in Gettysburg and were shown over the field by Albert Myrick, guide.

OLDEST RESIDENT DIES

Mrs. Marie Millar, Of Biglerville, Was Aged 92.

Biglerville lost its oldest resident at 8:00 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Marie Catherine Hoffman Millar, wife of the late Jacob B. Millar, died suddenly from paralysis, at the age of ninety two years and six days.

Mrs. Millar was a consistent member of the Lutheran Church since childhood, having united with that denomination at St. Paul's Church, near New Chester, and affiliated with the Biglerville Lutheran when she moved to that town eight years ago. She is survived by three sons, Warren Millar, of Biglerville; Jabe H. Millar, of Steelton; and Rev. G. William Millar, of Gordon.

A sister, Amelia M. Hoffman, of Biglerville; five grandchildren and two great grandchildren also survive her.

Funeral services at the Biglerville Lutheran Church Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. F. S. Tholan.

Interment at Biglerville.

JAPANESE WANT CHRISTIANITY

Rev. George W. Nicely Delivered
Stirring Address to Sunday School Workers.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK THERE

Buddhists Are Starting to Imitate
Christians He Declares. Vice President Zentmyer Scores Inactivity.

That the followers of Buddhism are stretching out their arms for Christianity and need only to be shown the light, was emphasized during a stirring address delivered to thirty five county and district Sunday School officers in St. James Lutheran social room, Friday afternoon, by Rev. George W. Nicely, of Hanover, who recently returned from the World Sunday School Convention in Japan. "The Buddhists have risen to the point now," said Rev. Mr. Nicely, "when they are trying to imitate the Christian teachings. For instance they have taken our hymn 'Jesus loves me this I know, for the Bible tells me so' and have substituted 'Buddha loves me this I know for Gautama tells me so.'"

Rev. Mr. Nicely said that the outlook for Christianity in Japan is exceedingly bright despite the fact that only one half of one per cent of the population is Christian. "The reason for hope," declared the speaker, "is the fact that the higher class of Japanese are the first ones to accept Christianity whereas in India, for instance, we are building from the lower to the higher class. The influence of the higher class of Japanese people is naturally far reaching."

Throughout his address of one hour Mr. Nicely emphasized strongly the need for Christian workers in the Japanese field. During his stay in Japan he did not remain in one city but toured with his party over a wide expanse of territory and was therefore able to procure a true insight into existing conditions.

He dwelt also upon the immensity of the world convention saying that thirty three nations were represented and that it was even a bigger affair than the international Sunday School convention embracing only the United States and Canada.

Following the address of Rev. Mr. Nicely the persons attending the special conference adjourned to the chapel where R. A. Zentmyer, state vice president, spoke to them.

Lack of enthusiasm among Sunday School workers was scored by Mr. Zentmyer who said:

"The men of our state have time enough to go to a baseball game in Philadelphia, a boxing show in Baltimore, or a football game at Princeton but will never avail themselves of the opportunity to attend a Sunday School convention. What we need is hundreds of enthusiastic workers to carry on our work with the same zeal that they manifest in other far less important activities."

KIDNAPPER GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Sorry It Is Not Death.

(By Associated Press)

Norristown, Nov. 20.—August Paskale, alias Pasquale, "The Crank," in the Coughlin kidnapping case, was sentenced to life imprisonment today in the Norristown court. Paskale pleaded guilty to second degree murder and kidnapping for extortion. He stole Blakely Coughlin, 13-month-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. George Coughlin from their home near Norristown June 2 last. He says he smothered the child under his coat.

He was sentenced on the kidnapping charge and the sentence was suspended on the second degree murder charge.

Judge Swartz told Paskale he was sorry he could not sentence him to death. The second degree murder charge will be pushed if Paskale is ever released.

CHECKING UP BREW

Will Seize Breweries Making Illegal
Booze.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Nov. 20.—All breweries manufacturing beer containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol will be seized by the Federal government, it was indicated today at the Bureau of Internal Affairs. Officials of the bureau said an analysis of beer brewed in a number of places was now being made and that where the product was found to exceed the legal limit in alcoholic content, the government would act to enforce the law.

In a statement today the bureau declared that the plant of Herancourt and Jackson, brewers, in Cincinnati, had been ordered seized after Supervising Agent Stone, who had analyzed samples of the beer produced reported that it showed alcoholic content of more than one-half of one per cent. The penalty provided by law in such cases, the officials say, makes the company liable to a fine and imprisonment.

MAHAFFIE, STAR ATHLETE, IS DEAD

Former Prominent Gettysburg College Player Expires in Philadelphia Hospital.

INJURIES INDIRECT CAUSE

Chest Was Caved in While Playing Football Against Dickinson College
Eight Years Ago. Popular Student.

A pall was cast among the alumni and older members of the student body of Gettysburg College as well as among numerous residents of the town itself when the news was received Friday afternoon that James Eugene Mahaffie, of Renova, former all around athlete and local Blue Ridge League outfielder, had died in the Hahnemann hospital after a six months' illness.

The death of Mr. Mahaffie, who was twenty seven years old and was widely known by the nickname "Bill," was not unexpected to his many friends here who knew of his critical condition. During his Freshman year at Gettysburg eight years ago, Mahaffie received the first of a series of injuries when his chest was caved in during a football game against Dickinson College. Later he was kicked in the stomach while playing against Ursinus. Physicians also informed him that he had only one lung.

Despite these handicaps Mr. Mahaffie appeared to be in the pink of physical condition and played four years in the baseball and basketball teams and one year upon the gridiron. His athletic record at Gettysburg was the finest compiled by any student since the time of Paul Sieber in 1906. He served as captain of both baseball and basketball teams and at the close of his Junior year caught and played in the outfield for Gettysburg Blue Ridge club.

After graduation he went to Pittsburgh and secured a position in the Allegheny Steel Company chemical department, playing basketball and baseball for the teams representing that corporation.

When the war broke out Mr. Mahaffie joined the aviation department of the army and served as flying instructor in France for about a year.

Last spring the many injuries received by Mr. Mahaffie in his athletic career started to show their effect. A western Pennsylvania physician is said to have made a serious mistake in failing to administer an anesthetic while removing three tumors which gave Mr. Mahaffie a shock from which he never fully recovered.

Mahaffie was removed to the Hahnemann hospital in Philadelphia where hope was held out for his recovery but his weakened constitution was unable to furnish the necessary powers of resistance and death resulted eventually.

Personally "Bill" Mahaffie was one of the most popular students in the history of Gettysburg and Perkiomen where he attended preparatory school. His friends here included many people in both town and county.

He was a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity here. His brother, Ralph Mahaffie, is a Junior at college now.

KIN OF WILSON IN BRIBE CASE

Brother-in-Law of President
Named in Shipping Board Inquiry.

WITNESS ADMITS BRIBE

Was Given For Unusual Favors to Staten Island Firm by Board. Split in Four Parts.

(By Associated Press)

New York, Nov. 20.—R. W. Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson and treasurer of the shipping board, was named in connection with a $40,000 bribe alleged to have been paid by a Staten Island ship building company to procure unusual favors from the board, in testimony before the congressional committee investigating shipping board affairs here today. Tucker Sands, former vice president of the committee, of the National Bank in Washington, testified that it was his understanding that $1,800 he loaned Bolling against his note and of which Bolling had paid back $300 was Bolling's share of the "$40,000 bribe" of the Wallace Downey Ship Building corporation for unusual shipping board favors.

Sands said that the $40,000, as he understood it, was to be split four ways between himself, Bolling, Lester Sister, former secretary of the shipping board and a man named Kranor.

Sands admitted that he had an interview with Alfred McCann, a reporter for the New York Globe and made allegations of the alleged bribe which was incorporated in an affidavit, a photostatic copy of which was submitted to the board today, prepared for his, Sand's, signature.

STOCK REPORT

Market Unsettled And Heavy. Closing Irregular.

(By Associated Press)

New York, November 20.—The stock market was very unsettled again today, a heavy opening giving way to further weakness, irregular recovery following later. Yesterday's weakest features, especially steels, oils and railway equipment, were under increased pressure with new low records for several leaders such as Crucible steel, Mexican petroleum and Baldwin locomotive. Food, leather and miscellaneous specialties also went lower on renewed liquidations. The better class of rails and shippings rose 1 to 3 points but cancelled some other gains when industrials became more reactionary. Such firmness as was shown in isolated instances probably resulted from short coverings, there being little public interest or support. The closing was irregular. Sales amounted to 550,000 shares.

BUILDING TRADE PRICES TO DROP

Combines Between Dealers, Contractors And Labor Smashed In New York.

PRODUCTION TO INCREASE

Good Effect From Fight. Court Case Revealed Strong Combinations to Maintain Prices.

New York, Nov. 20.—Disintegration of the contractor-dealer-labor combines forming New York's alleged "building trust" has begun and prices of construction materials have dropped since active warfare against these interests was opened, it was revealed Friday by witnesses before the joint legislative committee conducting the investigation.

Increased productivity of labor also has been apparent since the investigating committee began exposing one scandal after another and the grand jury started returning indictments, employees testified.

His Predictions Come True

Mingled with these developments came evidence to show existence of country-wide control of production and prices in marble, cement, limestone and other trades. National associations are throttling these industries, it was alleged.

His Predictions Come True

More than a year ago Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the investigating committee, declared that if given an opportunity to conduct an inquiry into these "combinations," he could send prices tumbling, and Friday, as his questions brought replies showing his predictions have come true, he seemed the happiest man in the big crowd that jammed the committee's chambers.

Testimony that the cement trade of the entire country is under the absolute control of a national association and that there "is a very rock-bound agreement" in the granite and marble industry was given by Hugh White, vice president of the George A. Fuller Construction Company, one of the largest concerns of its kind doing business throughout the United States.

He expressed the hope that he might soon see "competition" in building materials, trade and labor. Mr. Untermyer added he wanted to release labor from "the thrall of blackmail."

Collusion Intimated

Proceedings of the day also brought forth evidence that a policeman, Stephen Birmingham, was granted six months leave from the Police Department, while he worked under Robert P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades Council, in the "compensation bureau" of the Building Trades Council.

Collusion in bidding among contractors and dealers in brick, cement, sand, marble and other building materials was intimated during Mr. White's testimony. A mass of estimates "unvarying in amount," and with even the wording "absolutely uniform," submitted to the Fuller Company by dealers in various materials was offered in evidence. Corroborance of that company to various cement manufacturers asking direct sales of cement, and replies refusing the requests also was submitted.

Mr. White declared his company, before asking for estimates from various dealers, knew there was "no use" in having more than one, but always held the hope that "a break" would come.

The Cement Men's National Association has denied the country into districts, he testified. Manufacturers will not sell to dealers outside the sphere assigned to them. Similarly, dealers will not deal with contractors beyond their designated territory.

NAME TUBERCULOSIS DAYS

Churches And Schools To Have Christmas Seal Sale.

In connection with the 1920 Christmas Seal sale, Tuberculosis Day will be observed in Pennsylvania. The dates selected are Friday, December 3, in the schools and Sunday, December 5, in the churches.

In the schools, principals, teachers, physicians and laymen will speak on the nature and treatment of tuberculosis and how to prevent the disease. Many pastors on December 5 will devote all or part of a sermon to the question of health and particularly tuberculosis. In many Sunday Schools some time will likewise be devoted to presenting the subject. In churches and Sunday Schools laymen and physicians will also talk.

COAL WAGE TALK COMES TO HALT

Miners And Operators Disagree Over Interpretation of Wilson Telegram.

Philadelphia, November, 20.—The anthracite wage negotiations were brought to a halt here Friday when representatives of the hard coal miners and the operators adjourned their conference in disagreement.

The deadlock was reached on the interpretation to be placed upon President Wilson's telegram requesting reopening of the award of the United States Anthracite Coal Commission.

Officials of the mine workers announced that they would proceed to Washington immediately and ask the government to define more clearly its stand in the matter.

Thomas Kennedy, of Hazelton, Pa., chairman of the miners delegation, said that "owing to the stand taken by the operators further discussion was futile" until the government had officially defined its stand. The operators declined to discuss the matter and issued no statement.

The operators, it was learned, interpreted the President's telegram as giving permission only for the adjusting of alleged inequalities within the present wage agreement signed last September at Scranton following the commission's award. They contended that they have no authority to discuss new wage increases beyond the 17 per cent. written in this contract.

In defense of their stand the operators quote from President Wilson's message, which reads that a meeting shall be called for the purpose of "adjusting inequalities in the present agreement."

Miners' representatives contend that when they requested the President to reopen the award, they pointed out that they wanted wage increases equal to the 27 per cent. given the bituminous workers, as well as inequalities in the present agreement adjusted. They claim that President Wilson had these facts in mind when he requested the negotiations resumed.

"Between July, 1919, and July, 1920," said Major Todd at the start of his address, "the American Red Cross assisted three millions of war sufferers in France and Belgium. When our work was finished we found some money remained and this in every instance is being used to erect memorials to the American people through the Red Cross. In addition the Red Cross has established hostess houses near the cemeteries where American boys are buried. The Red Cross furnishes the house and the Y. W. C. A. gives the personnel to conduct the houses. They are there to aid the relatives who come to France to see the graves."

MAJOR HENRY S. TODD

Major Todd spoke briefly of the work of the Junior Red Cross abroad, saying this organization is giving a meal every day of 5,000 Belgium children and is financing a traveling moving picture exhibit showing films of American life. Conditions in the countries outside of Belgium and France have also improved, he stated, but added there remained much for the Red Cross to do in Europe. Bolshevik activity in Russia has kept the Red Cross out of that country, he said in conclusion, but the work will be carried on in that country as soon as conditions permit.

ROBBERS WORK AT THE CAPITOL

Thieves Ransack Offices of Ten Congressmen at Washington.

ALWAYS LEAVE NOTES

Believe Prowlers Were Searching For Liquor. Many Theories Advanced. Police Guards Hear Nothing.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—Mysterious night prowlers, one of whom signed himself "Ku Klux Klan," within three weeks have raided the private offices of half a score members of the House of Representatives. This was learned Friday after discovery of a raid on the rooms of Representative John M. Baer, Republican, North Dakota; W. B. Oliver, Democrat, of Alabama, a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, and William A. Oldfield, Democrat of Arkansas, a member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Theories as to the object of the pillagers range widely. The most prevalent is that the hunt is for liquor, but this is discounted by the fact that in several offices files have been carefully searched and strewn over the floor. That spies are hunting data which members are believed to have received on a variety of subjects is another theory. In every instance the raiders have got away without being detected, notwithstanding police guards are stationed at all the doors of the building.

Thursday night's raid was discovered by chorewomen yesterday morning. In Baer's room they found a glass door overlooking the large court, had been smashed. Papers were scattered everywhere. Notifying the superintendent, the women started to clean the office of Representative Oliver, second adjointing, and found a similar condition of disorder. Subsequently it was found that the prowlers had scraped the putty from the glass of the door to Oldfield's office, but had not entered.

Detectives found several notes the prowlers had left. On the desk of Baer was a cartoon of representatives upon which was written, "Thought we would leave your picture." A straw hat was on the floor and on it was pinned a piece of paper reading, "Too large; leave size smaller next time." A hand grip had been slashed with a knife and ripped open.

Walter H. Liggett, of North Dakota, deputy immigration commissioner, who is in Baer's office, ventured the theory that business interests of Minneapolis were trying to discover letters that would indicate Baer was associated with Bolsheviks and other radicals. Baer was first elected as a non-partisan Leaguer, but later as a Republican.

Three weeks ago the offices of Representatives Tillman, of Arkansas, and Huddleston, of Alabama, were entered. From Huddleston's office, $250 worth of silver wedding presents he had stored, was taken. The thief found a bag of salt in the room. The salt was spread on the floor in the figure of a circle. In it was a skull and bones, beneath which were the words, "Ku Klux Klan."

Lighting fixtures were removed from the office of Representative Galivan, of Massachusetts. Fifty dollars' worth of savings stamps were taken from the office of Representative Doughton, Democrat, of North Carolina.

MORE FARM TRACTORS

Labor Shortage Forces Use of Gasoline Engines.

The shortage of labor on the farms of Pennsylvania during the past year has brought about a greatly increased use of the farm tractor, according to statistics secured by the Bureau of Statistics, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. The figures show that during 1920 the number of tractors on the farms of the State have increased fifty per cent.

In 1919 there were approximately 4,315 tractors on the farms of Pennsylvania. At the present time there are approximately 6,823 tractors in use on the farms. These figures are based on reports from 705 townships in the State.

The reports do not indicate that horses are being generally discarded on the farms, but that tractors are used as auxiliary power, requiring less manpower to operate than the use of horses.

DYING MAN TELLS OF LIFE THREAT

Strong Web of Circumstantial Evidence in Dynamite Case in Maryland.

Rockville, Md., November 20.—A strong web of circumstantial evidence is being woven around Vernon Thompson, of Germantown, who is being held at Rockville jail in connection with the dynamiting of the home of James Bolton, which resulted in the death of Bolton and his housekeeper's two small children, Evelyn and Harold Shipley.

Furthermore, just before he died Bolton turned to the attending physicians, and, with great effort, said: "Thompson had threatened to get us, and I suppose he has got me." Then he lapsed into unconsciousness and soon died. He made the dying deposition to Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, of Washington, and Drs. J. W. Baird and Charles C. Tomolson, of the hospital staff.

After having been removed to the hospital Bolton was in such condition that he could make no lengthy statement. Toward night his condition became so critical that Drs. Baird and Tomolson telephoned State's Attorney Dawson that his death could be momentarily expected.

"I feel I am going to die," Bolton told Dr. Rogers, who had been summoned from Washington to perform an operation in desperate effort to save the man's life. It was then he told of the threat that Thompson had made to kill him and that he believed it was Thompson who had blown up his home.

SEMINARIANS ENTERTAIN

Music, Readings and Play Included In Program.

The annual fall reception to the faculty and new students of Gettysburg Theological Seminary was tendered by the older students of the institution, Friday night.

A program consisting of music and readings was given in the social room of the Seminary before the faculty members and their wives and the students and guests of the school.

The first number consisting of selections from a vocal octette composed of Ralph Baker, C. C. Ricker, R. S. Miller, D. M. Funk, Roy Yund, Harry Sauk, J. W. Drawbaugh and J. E. Rudisill was followed by a reading by Luther Gotwald. Miss Shoemaker then played a saxophone solo accompanied by Mrs. J. E. Rudisill and Mr. Aman gave a reading.

Following that portion of the program the students and guests adjourned to the room of Dr. J. A. Clutz where C. C. Ricker, Charles Venable and Miss Ruth Stallsmith presented "The Courtship of Miles Standish." Miss Stallsmith played the part of "Priscilla," Mr. Venable, "John Alden" and Mr. Ricker, "Miles Standish."

Refreshments served in the rectory brought the reception to a close.

FAVORS EARLIER SCHOOL AGE

State Superintendent Would Have it 6 or 7 Years.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 20.—State Superintendent Pinegan Friday urged that the compulsory education law be changed to bring younger children into the school, in an address to the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, in session here.

As at present constituted, Mr. Pinegan said, the school law is not effective in bringing children into school until they reach the age of 8 years. He would lower it by fixing the school entrance age for children at 6 or 7 years. He also favored equal opportunity for all boys and girls within the State to secure an education.

MRS. WILLIAM RINDLAUB

Phoebe Weaver Rindlaub, wife of William Rindlaub, Downingtown, died this morning at 2 o'clock at her home. She is survived by her husband and son, Willard, at home and brothers, E. J. Weaver and James O. G. Weaver, of Gettysburg.

Funeral Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the home of her brother, James O. G. Weaver, 70 Stevens street. Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

BOOZE SELLER JAILED

Baltimore Man Will Serve Eighteen Months.

(By Associated Press) Baltimore, Nov. 20.—Following the acquittal of all four government agents in the United States court here in the "alleged million dollar conspiracy" to violate the wartime prohibition, Judge Rose today sentenced Charles Vincent, head of the Triata company to eighteen months in the Federal prison in Atlanta, Georgia, and fined him $10,000. Vincent and six others pleaded guilty last Monday.

found out later was Charles Duffy, leader of the gang, ordered me to stop the car and get out. When I had reached the ground he said to me, 'This is no pleasure party. We're out for business and we're going to tie you up and leave you in the bushes.'

"Thinking that I might never be found in that pile of underbrush," continued the young driver, "I asked Duffy to take me along with him. He finally consented and off we started."

"From Monday night when we were near Rochester until early on Friday morning in Gettysburg I drove that Hudson sedan continually except for twenty four hours when we stopped in Wellsboro at the home of one of Peggy Harris' relatives. Every time we stopped to get gas Garrett and I would get out first and then Duffy and the woman would drive on to the garage a short distance away. Either Duffy or Garrett always had a 'gat' (meaning a revolver) in his pocket and a habit of pressing it up against me. Before entering restaurants Duffy would point to the 'gat' in his pocket and say 'Now you keep your trap shut or you know what you'll get.'"

"I couldn't tell how many robberies this gang pulled between Rochester and Gettysburg for the two men would go off by themselves for hours, leaving the woman to guard me. When they returned the three of them would go aside and talk in whispers. They were gone a long time in Wellsboro and I believe they pulled a job there as well as the Hilton post office."

Drawing near the end of his unusual story young Coughlin said, "The split between the two men came in York. While we were driving along a brilliantly lighted street crowded with people Duffy said to Garrett, 'Let's stick up one of these guys here.'"

"You're crazy," returned Garrett. "We have only a gallon of gas left in the tank and have no chance to make a getaway."

"Then you mean you're through working with me," retorted Duffy, the leader.

"Sure I am when you propose foolish stunts like holding up a man in the middle of a city like this one," returned Garrett.

"The two men never spoke to each other the whole way between York and Gettysburg," stated the taxi driver. "When we got near this big white garage on the main street down here Duffy and the woman put Garrett and me out as usual. Instead of stopping for gas and oil, however, they turned around and started back toward York."

Shortly after the enforced arrival of the crook and taxi driver in Gettysburg the latter told his story to State Constable William Lewis and Chief of Police M. V. Fuggitt. These two men rounded up Garrett after he had left his revolver under a board at the Western Maryland railroad station. In his cell at the jail Garrett affirmed the story of young Coughlin but added of course, that he was the least guilty of the three "yeggs" and had tried to persuade Duffy to set Coughlin free.

SALE TOTALS $3360

Twelve Head Sold at Buttonwood Stock Farm, Thursday.

Twelve head of horses sold at the annual Buttonwood Stock Farm sale on Thursday afternoon brought a total of $3360.

A number of prominent horsemen from various sections of Pennsylvania including Edward and John McGrath, of Philadelphia; and J. J. Critchfield, of "The American Sportsman," were present at the sale. The auctioneer was George A. Bain, of Lexington, Kentucky, who next week will call the "Old Glory" sale at Madison Square Garden, New York, one of the largest annual horse sales in this country.

Eleven of the twelve horses that were sold belonged to J. L. Butt, Esq., owner of the Buttonwood farm. Albert Hurst was owned by Kender-ton S. Lynch.

A list of the horses sold, their purchasers, and prices follows:

Gretchen Hale to A. L. Martin, Philadelphia, for $400; McGregor Hale to D. C. Aspers, of Aspers, for $160; Dona Hale to John H. Young, Gettysburg, for $250; Katy Hale to Clayton Moxley, Gettysburg, for $125; Bert Hale to Schrader Brothers, New Oxford, for $650; Axie Hale to H. N. Gitt, Hanover, for $230; Julia Hale to G. N. Hunter, Westminster, for $155; Peter Hale to George Lynch, Gettysburg, for $600; Hinda Hale to J. B. Witherow, Gettysburg, for $140; Prima Witt to George Lynch, Gettysburg, for $200; Fanny Hale to H. N. Gitt, Hanover, for $300; Albert Hurst to H. J. Spaulding, Littlestown, for $150.

LATEST BOY PRODIGY

He Reaches Notes Far Beyond Famous Singers.

New York, Nov. 20.—This year promises to reveal a bumper crop of boy prodigies. Edward Rochie Hardy, the 12-year-old Columbia freshman, may boast of the mastery of a dozen languages, and Samuel Rzeszewski, 8 year old Polish chess wizard, may be able to checkmate twenty West Point strategists in a row—but neither of them can sing.

Robert Murray, 12, of Tacoma, Washington, can sing. In an exhibition before a group of famous Metropolitan stars, including Mlle. Frances Alda, who "discovered" the youth last summer, Murray not only reached the high notes of his instructor and to the astonishment of his hearers he transposed those high notes to a higher key and breathed them with equal facility and resonance.

The singers who heard the performance asserted this was the highest note ever reached by the human voice.

ARENDSVILLE

Arendtsville—Notwithstanding the rain on Tuesday the funeral of H. P. Mark was largely attended by his relatives and many friends. In his death this community has lost one of its best citizens.

Rev. J. A. Singmaster occupied the pulpit in the Lutheran church in this place last Sunday.

Rev. S. F. Koser, of Sunbury, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Rice and daughter, of Chambersburg, were recent visitors at the home of Rev. and Mrs. D. T. Koser.

Owing to the scarcity of farm help there is much corn remaining to be husked.

The turkey crop this year is short and due to the high prices paid for them many families will not have turkey for their Thanksgiving dinner.

All our school teachers are attending the Institute in Gettysburg this week with the exception of Miss Floranna Love, who is spending the week at her home in Centre county.

THIEVES ROB PASTOR

Steal His Food as He Preached About Stealing.

Lock Haven, Pa., Nov. 20.—Not long ago the Rev. S. B. Bidlack, who came here from Marysville, Pa., recently, delivered a sermon in his church on the subject, "Thieves," taking his text from Gospel of St. Mark 9:9; "The thief cometh not but to destroy, to rob, and to steal, but I am come that you might have life."

When he returned home after the service, he found that while he was delivering the sermon the refrigerator had been emptied of its contents. He had to hustle around early Monday morning to get something to eat.

YOUTH HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Death of Harrisburg Man Was at First Thought Due to Accident.

New Bloomfield, Pa., Nov. 20.—Ellsworth Taggart, a sixteen-year-old Wheatfield township youth, has been arrested on a charge of murder growing out of the fatal shooting of S. B. Shepler, of Harrisburg, October 27. Taggart has been lodged in the Perry county jail here. The shooting was at first thought to have been accidental. An investigation was conducted by District Attorney James M. McKee and the youth's arrest followed. Taggart will be called for trial at the January sessions of court. His trial will be the fourth murder trial in Perry county since its establishment more than 100 years ago.

Taggart is said to have shot Shepler when the latter was hunting on the property of E. E. Hoak, of Wheatfield township, with whom Taggart made his home. Taggart, at first, was thought to have been hunting, but later investigation led to the belief that he purposely directed the rifle, one of small caliber, at Shepler.

Shepler, who was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, had gone on the farm land and had been ordered off by Taggart. He is said to have agreed to leave and to have started to walk away, when the youth shot. Shepler was taken to the Harrisburg Hospital, where he died within two days.

TELLS FARMERS HOW TO GROW CORN

Crop Expert Conducts Test on Farm of John Bream.

Ten farmers were present at the discussion of the results obtained from the corn tests conducted during the summer by Paul Hoffman, County Farm Agent, at the farm of John Bream, along the Fairfield road, Friday afternoon. E. J. Walter, assistant to Dr. Schmidt, head of the crop and soil department of Pennsylvania State College, gave an interesting talk on how to choose seed corn.

Mr. Walter is recognized as an authority in corn judging. He was one of the five judges at the International Corn Show in Chicago last year and will be a judge at the Farm Products Show to be held in Harrisburg next January.

He told the farmers the best way to secure increased corn yields was to conduct their own seed corn experiments and not to try seed corn of other growers who had produced heavy returns. It is just as important to have pure bred corn, he declared, as it is to have pure bred stock, and the only way to get the best seed corn for the particular soil is for the farmer to make his own experiments. Mr. Walter said the western farmer was using pure-grown corn and this was the secret for his large yields. He urged the farmers of this section to get away from using the mixed varieties of seed corn.

MUNSEY BUYS AMERICAN

Baltimore Paper Purchased By Well Known Publisher.

Baltimore, Nov. 20.—General Felix Angus, the veteran publisher of the Baltimore American and the Baltimore Star, announced in the American today that on December 1 the American and the Star will pass under the control of Frank O. Munsey, owner of the Baltimore News, the New York Herald, the New York Sun, the New York Telegram and other publications. The American is one of the oldest newspapers in the United States. In his laudatory General Angus says: "Publication of the Star will cease with Mr. Munsey's acquisition of the properties and the plants of the News and the American will be consolidated in Mr. Munsey's publication plant. The American will be continued under the same name."

General Angus is 81 years of age.

COOLIDGE AT DINNER

Chester, Pa., Nov. 20.—Calvin C. Coolidge, Vice-President-elect, will be the guest of honor on December 4, when the historic old City Hall recently restored, will be turned over to the city, and a Republican victory dinner will be given.

Governor Coolidge will be the guest of Governor Sproul, and will be one of the main speakers at the formal exercises in the City Hall courtyard when Governor Sproul, who personally had the structure remodeled to its colonial beauty, will be relieved of his charge. The State's executive spent more than $50,000 on the project.

FATHER AND SON BANQUET

Arendtsville Reformed Sunday School Holds Event.

Friday evening a successful and enjoyable father and son banquet was held in the High School Building, Arendtsville, under the auspices of Zion Reformed Sunday School of that place. An elaborate menu was served by the wives of the teachers and officers and the young ladies' class taught by Mrs. Bertha Rebert.

Splendid talks were made by Rev. Paul R. Pontius, of Gettysburg, M. E. Knoose, of the Lutheran Sunday School, and Kieffer Raffensperger, Ralph Orner, Roy Heckenluber and Paul Wert of the Arendtsville school. Rev. Dr. D. B. Lady in his happy manner was toastmaster. During the course of the banquet various hymns and songs were sung, beginning with "Onward Christian Soldiers" and ending with "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" during which the Friendship Circle was formed. The music was furnished by the Arendtsville Orchestra under the leadership of Professor Charles Rutschky.

The committee of arrangements was the class of Oris Heckenluber. The spirit of good fellowship characterized the evening and everybody went home convinced that Father and Son celebration is one of the best things that have come from the State Sabbath School Association. One hundred and two people were present including a father 85 years of age in the person of George G. Plank.

SCENT ROYAL ROMANCE

London, Nov. 20.—Crown Prince Charles, of Rumania, who several days ago arrived in Lucerne, Switzerland, from Bucharest, is constantly seen in the company of Princess Helen, of Greece, daughter of former King Constantine, says a Lucerne dispatch to the London Times, and announcement of the couple's engagement is expected within a few weeks.

This betrothal, if it takes place, is regarded as likely to have an important effect on the future of the Balkans.

HARDING TO SET STYLE

Washington, Nov. 20.—Next year is to be "Harding year" in clothing styles for men, members of the Custom Cutters' and Designers' Association were told by speakers at a dinner Thursday night. P. J. Foley, of Washington, an officer of the association, said that President-elect Harding wears conservative suits, leaning to blues and grays, and that is what all well-dressed men will wear in 1921.

"There will be no frills in clothes."

KELLY TO MANAGE PHILS

St. Paul Leader Expected To Replace Cravath.

Mike Kelly, manager of the St. Paul American Association baseball team, will replace Gavvy Cravath next year as manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, according to an announcement by William F. Baker, president of the Phillies. Mr. Baker said Cravath has been given his unconditional release.

Although Kelly has not yet signed a contract, Baker said they had agreed on all details and that Kelly was anxious to come to Philadelphia. "Kelly is in St. Paul arranging his affairs with the American Association club there," said Baker. "If he can get away, and I have no doubt that he can, he will be our manager next season."

MARTIN VERSUS ROPER

A. E. F. Champ Will Fight In Boston Wednesday.

Bob Martin, heavyweight boxing champion of the American expeditionary force, has been matched with Captain Bob Roper, of Chicago, for a ten-round bout to a decision at Boston next Wednesday night. Martin, who also held the inter-allied championship overseas, knocked out bandsman Rice, the English title holder last Tuesday. Roper won all his bouts in army camps in this country during the war. The men have met twice before in 12-round no-decision contests.

THE COUNTY'S GREATEST NEED

November 25th--December 4th

THE HOSPITAL FUND CAMPAIGN

Whether or not we still live by the old adage "Charity Begins at Home," it at least can not be questioned that charity cannot end until home has been taken care of.

Some thirty four thousand people call Adams County "home". The welfare of each is most important to all. Health is of first consideration as a matter of welfare, and the Annie M. Warner County Hospital gives the county's "Citadel of Health."

Our mothers will be cared for
Our babies will be made well when sick
They will be kept well by the Baby Clinic
The rest of us too will be cared for when sick
We shall be given an opportunity to learn how to keep well.

Hospitals are crowded everywhere. Can our fully equipped new building be put into service at once? Yes! if you do your share toward raising the $100,000 Endowment Fund.

Your bank is a member of the committee in charge of raising this fund. Fill out and sign the subscription form below and back your bank in providing safety for you as well as for your finances.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAIMED

Governor Sproul Says Observance Should be Especially "Reverent And Devoted."

CROPS WERE BOUNTIFUL

Governor Refers to Three Hundredth Anniversary of The Coming of Pilgrim Fathers.

Pennsylvania people, "unshaken in the orderly solution of the social and economic problems which looked formidable" and blessed by a wonderful harvest have been called upon by Governor Sproul to observe Thanksgiving Day. In a proclamation issued from the executive offices the Governor refers to the coming of the Pilgrims and says that this year the observance should be especially "reverent and devoted."

The Governor says in his proclamation:

"The turn of the seasons has again brought to us that period of the year when a time-honored custom of our people bids us halt in our work and devote a day to retrospection of the mercies and blessings which Providence has given us. Thanksgiving Day is an institution peculiarly American. It had its origin early in our history in the deep religious feeling of those pioneers of our civilization who, suffering for conscience sake, sought asylum upon the rugged shores of our Northern lands. Just 300 years have passed since these venerated Pilgrims landed upon our soil and in this anniversary year it is fitting that our observance should be particularly reverent and devoted."

Favored Land of Plenty

"If those courageous Christians, surrounded by perils now happily long since gone, and struggling for a scant existence in a stern and bleak climate could contemplate the rigors of their winter with a spirit of gratitude for the few spare comforts their toil had brought them, what should our feelings be here in Pennsylvania, in this favored land of plenty, in times like these? Our cause triumphant, our crises passed with a minimum of loss and sacrifice, our faith in our plan of government vindicated in the trials of war and peace, our constitutional machinery serving us in our changing needs without turmoil or distraction, great progressive steps made in our march toward practical idealism by the establishment of full rights for all our people, our splendid citizenship sturdy and unshaken in the orderly solution of the social and economic problems which loomed gravely formidable, and now, given a wonderful harvest of our material necessities to help us in bringing back those habits of thrift and saving which have characterized our great National development, should not we fervently, devotedly and devoutly give thanks to Almighty God in this year of His grace for His especial and conspicuous blessings to us?

Asks Wide Observance

"Now, therefore in consideration of all these things, I, William Cameron Sproul, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do join with the President in our United States of America, in proclaiming the fifth day of the week, called Thursday, the 25th day, the eleventh month of the year, called November, as Thanksgiving Day, observed as a holiday, and I appeal to our people to observe the same in their places of worship, in their homes or wherever they may be, as a day when deep gratitude shall be expressed to our Lord for His loving kindness to us, that we all may rever-

A Christmas Stocking

By Bertha Esmond Ridgely

CHRISTMAS and the high cost of living do not make a very harmonious combination," observed Mrs. Ralston, in her quiet, patient way.

"I was just thinking of that, mother," replied her married daughter, Eunice Marsh, who sat with her work basket in her lap, her needle threaded with mending yarn, and rounding one of her husband's stockings at the heel.

"There! that is done, and I hope it will pass muster as half respectable pinned up to Aunt Mary's mantel." Mrs. Ralston sighed, and Eunice did not act any too cheerful. They were lovable, generous souls, and until the past year or two had never known what it was to skip and watch the corners closely. The mother picked up the stocking Eunice had placed on the table.

"Come to think of it, Eunice," she said, "we can do better than that. Just run up to the storeroom. Here is the key. You'll find father's clothes and things as they were when he died."

The last years of John Ralston's life had been full of anxiety and struggle. There was a mortgage on the old homestead, and at one time it seemed a foreclosure could not be avoided. Then in some way he secured the money to pay it off, and fortunately it was clear of encumbrance when he died. That was just a month after Eunice married Randal Marsh.

Her heart warmed as she thought of the loyal, whole-souled man who had come into her life at a critical time. It had been generally supposed that Randal had some little means, for he was industrious and thrifty, but when Mr. Ralston died Randal stepped into his place, practical, hard working and self-sacrificing.

The tears fell as Eunice reached the storeroom, and lifted the top of the fancy box she had herself covered, in which her father had been accustomed to store his extra clothing. Randal himself had made the receptacle, and together they had given it to Mr. Ralston on his last birthday. Eunice removed some articles of apparel tenderly and with care, placed them on a chair, and discovered some handkerchiefs and three pairs of stockings rolled up neatly. She took the top pair, unrolled it and with satisfaction noted as it unrolled that it was new and whole.

"Why, what can this be!" she uttered, as an envelope fell from the released folds. Her wonderment increased as she picked it up and found it unsealed and inside a written page and a peculiar looking key. Then with staring eyes, breathless, stirred to the depths of her soul, she read:

"After I am gone see that this letter and key are given to Randal Marsh. It has been a secret he made me promise never to divulge, that he gave me money to pay off the mortgage. Poor, noble hearted fellow! he had saved the $2,000 to build a little home, and gave it to me to benefit us all. Month by month I have saved what I could, and have placed the money in a safety deposit box in the City bank, where there is nearly the amount he gave me."

Eunice with difficulty suppressed a great cry of joy. She could scarcely refrain from rushing downstairs and revealing her marvelous discovery to her mother. As she reflected how much this generous donation would mean to them all, in a transport of happy tears she sobbed forth her love for the worthy helpmate who had so well fulfilled his duty to himself and her family.

Eunice was alive with half-subdued excitement all that evening. She waited when they had reached Aunt Mary's until her mother and the others had placed their little gifts in the stocking bearing a card with Randal's name. All alone, she kissed the precious envelope and slipped it into the stocking.

"A necktie, gloves and a pen knife. That from aunt. Something always useful. A letter, no! a card of greeting, no! Why, what does this mean?" spoke Randal Marsh, and read it as they all gathered about the fire place, and then he knew. Unselfish man that he was, he actually blushed like a culprit detected at the revelation of a sleeping secret of years.

"It means that I have the dearest, most noble husband in the world!" cried Eunice, her arms about him, her lips raining kisses. "Oh, my brave one! my true one! And who in the world today deserves the blessings of Christmas more than you!"

I can promise to be candid, though I may not be impartial.—Goethe.
